ABSTRACT

This CD-ROM presents a computer game that introduces students to the world of archaeology through attempting to solve a mystery. It gives students the inside story on this fascinating science and contains five missions for solving the mystery, over 20 video sequences, a variety of activities, a glossary with 53 entries, over 40 photos, 20 narrative sequences, a notebook that keeps track of discoveries, easy-to-follow instructions, and a user friendly interface for navigating the program. The user is able to consult historical documents, question experts and participate in measurement, comparison, association, and deduction activities. (ASK)
